

Since the year 2000, Rodolfo "El Chino" Aguerrodi & Miho Omaki have been traveling around the world to spread their love for the Argentine Tango through performing and teaching.

They regularly visit Germany, Luxembourg, France, Italy, U.K., Austria, Hungary, Canada, Argentina, Brazil, Japan, etc., using the Rodolfo Teaching Method.

The method focuses on the understanding of the correct technique involved to develop the man's and the woman's communication, their capacity for energy reception, and therefore improve their leading and following skills.

Rodolfo and Miho believe that the main rule to dancing tango is to avoid the use of physical force, but instead use soft body lead and energy control. They utilize elements from Tango de Salon, Tango Nuevo, Milonguero, Villa Urquiza, and others. All their performances are improvisational.

Andrea & Jorge have been dancing together since March 2008 developing a mixture between the connection, sensitivity, softness and passion of the Tango Argentino with the precision, lines and flexibility of modern dances.

Their method of teaching starts with the understanding of the natural movements which will be transformed into dance through music, aesthetics and technique.

Musicality is the most important element in their teaching.

Sabine and Thomas became acquainted with the Argentine Tango and grew to love it through Jorge as well as through Miho & Rodolfo (El Chino).

Passionately, they further developed their own dance and instruction style of Tango Salón and of Tango Nuevo.

Along with regularly scheduled Milongas in Vienna, together with Jorge and Andrea they arrange monthly training sessions that begin with a survey of the history of the Tango. Historical films with interpreters and their orchestras are in order to better understand the music.

Sabine and Thomas dedicate themselves completely to the selection of good danceable music, and as Tango DJs they are in constant demand.
